

A little about the twisted minds that brought you inbred dragons.....

Eric Hunnes: Unofficial Team Leader. A mechanical mastermind (when he's awake). A returning veteran, on his fourth (unconsecutive) tour. The backbone of a spineless team.

Ian Smith: Eienstien meets Don King. Engineer, artist, promoter and entrepreneur. Every Kinteticist dream come true. Ladies?

Jonathan Moore: Corrupt capitalist. The "brains" behind the bribes, cheating, "liberating", and all other Machiavellian maneuvers. A critic last year who still has not found his moral bearing.

Larry Diede: Engineering efficiency expert. After he failed to figure out a way to conceal a chevy 454 big block to power the craft he became the master of Keep It Simple Stupid

Still some room here...
it could feature your face.

A special Thanks to all of our sponsors.

Which provided us with one of the most crucial tools to building a kinetics craft, BEER.

Generously donated material for the dragons neck.

Printed this and other materials, and gave up their out of date AOL disks.

A Quiet Rebellion for all their help with Fund-raisers, and all the pigeons at the poker games who gave so generously

YOUR LOGO HERE!

Yes! Its true! There still are sponsorship opportunities available.
Contact Jonathan Moore at:
jwm357@comcast.net
for more information.

Also Special thanks to:

Robert Matsuo - Official Photographer
Dave "Yul" Gaudiosi - Reasercher
Robert "Renny" Baker III - Web Master
Jonathan "john boy" Ringham - Wing Tailor

Copyright A Quiet Rebellion 2004
All rights reserved
2-18-04

We are attempting to answer a question that has plagued xeno-biologists for millennia. If the dragon population of a particular subspecies dwindles to no longer have the genetic diversity necessary for healthy breeding, what happens When Dragons Inbreed? Is it indeed this lack of breeding stock that has led to the mutations as disparate as fire breathing winged demons to the peaceful green dragon of Honoliee? Where did the Asian water dragons come from? Are the western cousins their illegitimate child? If this is indeed the case we must recognize that the majority of mutations are not beneficial. What happened to the failures? Were they just sacrifices to Darwinism in a predatory world? Does any trace of them remain?

We think so.

Kinetics 2004
Saturday May 1st
Parade April 24th

Engineering

This craft is loosely based off a craft used in years past. Stripped down to the pontoons and frame it was rebuilt like the million dollar man, faster, stronger, better, without the benefit of a million dollar budget. One of the most impressive parts is the water drive system which can be operated by one, some or all of the team.

Sculpture

In an attempt to appeal, shamelessly, to Boulderites unreasonable desire to compulsively recycle and reuse, the scales of this dragon are made of old AOL (and other) CDs. An estimated 2000 CD's will be used to complete the sculpture. The two heads are a classic example of East meets West (and not always getting along).

Costumes

As of right now we have no firm ideas on this subject. We would like to see, depending on how many we can get for the parade, A red neck knight, a 'damsel in distress', two volunteers for the heads and several small dragons. We are open to ideas.

Style

Again this is in the beginning phases. Some ideas have been put forward and most have been summarily executed. It has not been pretty.

Bribes

Of course, as you are all well aware, all dragons horde treasure, and inbred dragons are no exception. You can expect that the horde will be tapped and shared, although perhaps unequally. In addition items such as dragon teeth (known for bringing good luck) and Dragon Blood (known for giving an imbiber courage and strength) will be distributed.

THIS SPACE FOR RENT